OUR COMPANY

From small but passionate beginnings in a suburb of Melbourne Australia, Passage Foods is now the leading supplier of private label liquid pouch sauces in North America. With a love for food, an extensive history in the retail and prepared food industries, our founders recognized an opportunity existed for authentic recipes developed with a culinary flair.

Passage Foods is at the forefront in providing customer-branded products to many on the global top 100-grocery retailer list.

YOUR PRODUCT

We start each customer project with our team of chefs who ensure the flavor authenticity of each creation through personal taste experience and global consumer insights. Our dedicated food technologists next formulate our recipes to add the desired functional attributes that guarantee successful commercialization and manufacturing efficiency. With over 60,000 unique recipes to choose from we provide our customers with the perfect match to their Own-Brand flavor and price point needs. Our strong background in the retail industry means that Passage Foods always keeps our customers' requirements for quality and product presentation a priority. Each step from concept ideation to commercialization is performed by people with a passion and understanding of food...the way it should be!

OUR QUALITY

Today's food industry demands quality suppliers who are equipped to provide detailed manufacturing and ingredient information, documentation support and real-time order data. Passage Foods is resourced to ensure compliance with domestic and international regulatory requirements and all of our facilities are BRC Certified to ensure product standards and consistency.

Our nutritionists and food technologists are trained to design products that can fulfill ever-increasing consumer awareness of dietary needs including allergen requirements, natural and organic options, gluten free and ingredient declaration constraints, without sacrificing flavor authenticity. As we continue our expansion around the world we work to capture local consumer preferences and redefine the market standard... it is what we call Creating a Taste for Success.

Our global customer network and raw material sourcing has allowed us to develop a worldwide network of shipping and logistics suppliers who deliver product with the same efficiencies be it Sydney, Hong Kong, London, or Boston.

YOUR NEEDS

Our customers know us for our prompt R&D turnaround. We understand the demands of today's food industry timetables and the advantage gained in speed-to-market. Our facilities are designed with a goal of fast and accurate product development. We strive to deliver turnkey commercialized creations....quickly.
